Clinical Case Reviews - Parnassus

Date

Tuesday, April 4, 2017 - 6:00pm

Location

S-172

This week we welcome Mark Anderson, MD, PhD from the Department of Endocrinology (and our Director!).

When: Tuesday, April 4th, 6:00pm-7:30pm

Where: Parnassus, Medical Sciences, S-172

Light dinner provided.

The Parnassus branch of Clinical Case Review is intended to expose students in the MSTP, particularly those in their grad years, to cases from a wide range of clinical specialties. We hope that this will help students refine their ability to build a history, interpret exam findings and lab results, generate a differential diagnosis, and consider appropriate management, all skills that they will rely on for their return to medical school and beyond. For each session, we invite a clinical faculty member to lead an interactive case discussion or ask a student to present a recent case from the medical literature.

All MSTP students are invited to join us every other Tuesday for dinner and stimulating conversation. Please contact Shelly Mintz or Trisha Macrae to RSVP or if you have any questions.
